SOUTHERN ADVOCATE FOR PROPERTY and that the State is the organ of Property Owners, pacifists will fail to grasp reality.

The objective of the I.W.W. and socialist parties is the same in the long run—freedom for all the people. Socialism of all properties is necessary to produce the food, clothing and shelter and the civilized social amenities of the whole people and work under democratic control to distribute the products freely to all.

Socialists aim to gain State control so that the armed forces of a property society will not be used against the people.

The I.W.W. aims to control industry and so control the production and transport of supplies of the armed forces that the power of the State will become impotent. Both aims are necessary, and any class conscious worker will see that a unity of action is necessary. The I.W.W. stresses factually, even though not theoretically, the point that a real political party of Labor can only come out of a consciously organised workers' One Big Union. In actual practice, in dynamic action the theoretical differences will be submerged in common class consciousness. Freedom, the anarchist weekly of London, clearly recognises the role of organised wage-labourers as the voluntary agents of the Anarchist Federation of Britain.

The ideal relationship between the individual and society is the co-operative working together to produce and create all that we need. The widening of mental horizons will result.

Anti-Bolshevist Communism in Germany

(PAUL MATTICK)

The process of the concentration of capital and political power forces any one who attempts to destroy capitalism or to serve it consistently, the Old German labor movement had no voice in the latter, and was neither willing nor able to do the former. It functioning neither in accordance with its original ideology nor with the wishes of the workers. For a time it served as a control instrument of the ruling classes. First losing its independence, it was soon to lose its very existence.

Essentially the history of this movement is the history of the capitalist class and its government at point of view. The so-called market laws were to be utilised in favor of the commodity-labor power. "Economic" conditions in the free market had to be secured by way of social reform. The capitalists, too, increased the revenues of the government by side fostering the monopolistic re-organisation of capitalist society, though to be
