TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1855.

The war was not entirely received by the citizens of America with a view to extending the commercial intercourse between the two peoples, but it was a war of necessity, and the result was that the people of the United States were forced to become more independent of the British. The British were averse to the war, but the Americans were determined to win it. The war lasted for several years, and the result was that the British were forced to surrender.

ALLEN & CO. are about to open The Wheel Manufacturers, Red Lion Hill, near the Bar, always on hand for the accommodation of gentlemen, and every respect is paid to the comfort and convenience of their patrons.

James Oddie, Central Bank Office, Duke Street, Bath.

The new and improved establishment of the Regent Theatre, Bath, is soon to be opened, under the management of Mr. Allen.

The new theatre, which will be erected on the site of the old one, will be a most elegant and ornate building, with a large orchestra and stage. The audience will be seated in comfort and convenience, and the scenery and effects will be of the highest order. The managers are to be congratulated on their enterprise and courage in undertaking such a project, and the public are sure to derive much pleasure from their performances.
