BOWYANG

work on changing australia

vol.1 no.1
Contents

1...Editorial
2...The Rich in the Depression (Domestic Service in Woollahra During the Depression Years, 1928-1934......Drew Cottle
25..The Media and Advertising.....Humphrey McQueen
37..The Britannic Question: The Empire and the Colonies.....Michael Dunn
63..Hawke To Power: Managerial Unionism.....Peter Cochrane

REVIEWS
82.."Ruling Class Ruling Culture", R.W.Connell.....Reviewed by K. Tsokhas
87.."The Development of Australian Sculpture, 1788-1975, Graeme Sturgeon.....Reviewed by H. McQueen

DOCUMENTS
92..Billy Hughes and the Brisbane Guns.....P.Cochrane

Bowyang's address is: BOWYANG,
P.O.Box 289, Goodwood, South Australia, 5034

Subscription Rates: Single Issue.....$2.00
Per Year........$4.00 (individuals)
................$8.00 (institutions)

Cover Design by Peter Mumford
Layout by Progressive Printers Alliance
Printed by Empire Times Press, Flinders University, Bedford Park, S.A.5042

ISSN 0156 - 8116
Editorial

Bowyang: Work on Changing Australia will deal with every aspect of our past and our future.

Bowyang strives to express the development of Australian society in clear, factual and coherent ways. Work on changing Australia is not the property of some narrow circle whose writing is little more than tangles of jargon. On the contrary, this work can only move ahead if it has the active support of the greatest possible number of writers and researchers, teachers and students.

Changing Australia depends upon a working knowledge of our reality and direction. In our view, Australia has been changed through the constant conflict between subservience and independence. Since 1770, Australia's development has been marked by a battle between subservience to "superpowers" - England, the U.S.A., and now the intrusion of the Soviet Union - and the assertion of independence by Aboriginals, businesses and farmers, and the working class. This contradiction has shown up in writings about Australia as a split between those who have sucked up to our foreign rulers and others who have demanded self-reliance. Bowyang stands in the latter camp.

Broad statements are not enough. Bowyang exists in order to help us to understand our country in all its complexity and detail. General truths, without particular and detailed work, soon turn into misleading dogma.

Is there the work ready to keep this new type of publication going? Are there enough people to sustain a new journal; not merely by buying it, but also by their writings? We believe that there are; that there is an abundance of work that cries out for publication; and that there are a large number of people who believe with us that such writing and research must serve a better purpose than to be the subject of passive worship. We rely on our readers to help us, and therefore we are confident that Bowyang will succeed.

EDITORIAL BOARD:
P. Cochrane, D. Cottle, M. Dunn, H. McQueen, K. Tsokhas

* Bowyang: a piece of hide or string tied around the trousers beneath the knee. Used by rural labourers at work around Australia. An Australian symbol of work.